Dear Steve,

Good afternoon and good wishes.

My name is Tony Farrell writing from Ireland.

Firstly, let me say that you did not quite get it right, when you rubbished the "basking in the glory" rhetoric of Theresa May, amidst her claim that she "ensured justice" for the families of the 96, earlier this year.

As the former Principal Intelligence Analyst for South Yorkshire Police, sacked for refusing to peddle government lies in 2010, I have to disagree in part with the following assertion of yours.

“The only people who deserve credit for taking on the establishment and winning are the families and campaigners, who fought for 27 years for truth and justice.”

Let me first qualify my disagreement. Sure, the families and the campaigners deserve immense credit for taking on the establishment. Their unprecedented efforts have been truly astonishing and praiseworthy indeed, but while they may have in recent times, clearly won the Battle of Birchwood, they have not yet won the War with Westminster. On the contrary, the families of the 96 are perilously close to losing it, as they are being tricked by the establishment into thinking that they have already won.

The Hillsborough crush was a deliberately planned event, which escalated and got hopelessly out of control, and twenty-eight years on, some of the main culprits for the "MURDER" of 96 people, are still escaping justice, in an ongoing cover-up, of ever growing proportions. Theresa May knows this, and that's why she ensured with her lieutenant Amber Rudd that the Battle of Orgreave, would go nowhere.

Muad'Dib / JAH posted to your constituency office in Walton, a DVD of a ground-breaking film about the planned disaster. It's called the Hillsborough Ripple Effect. We hope that you have watched it by now, and found it suitably disturbing. It brings into focus what you said about Theresa May in February. If you have not yet had sight of The Hillsborough Ripple Effect, it can be viewed via the link below.

You may also wish to read this related article which covers the "unjust judge" in the Hillsborough Disaster. The all important identity of the film-maker JAH / Muad'Dib is revealed in it, and I respectfully suggest that if there is one thing you really need to fully understand from this email, it is the identity of that. Unless the families seek out His help, then they, and you in your fine effort to help the families, will not win that all important War of Westminster.

The article above offers profound insight and also documents correspondence with the following individuals who could potentially have an important part to play in helping the families win the war: Professor Phil Scraton; Andy Burnham; Former Bishop of Liverpool, James Jones; Archbishop of Liverpool, Malcolm McMahon; Bishop of Liverpool, Paul Bayes; Deacon of Liverpool, Pete Wilcox, soon to be Bishop of Sheffield; and last but not least, you, by way of this correspondence.

Finally, would you be prepared, in principle, to meet up with the film-maker, please, once you have discovered exactly who He is, from reading the article above, in its entirety?

P.S. Besides, JAH, I have copied in three prominent members of The Hillsborough Justice Campaign, into this email.

Best wishes

Tony Farrell
